

A New Look & Logo for CDBI

The CDBI membership & promotion committee have developed a new look & logo for CDBI. This new image is clean and contemporary and will be applied to all CDBI material.

We encourage all members to download the new logo for their use to add to their own web site, business card or other correspondence. You can download the logo from the member's only section of the web site.

Still to come is a new web site that will be reorganized and more user friendly. CDBI also welcome suggestions from members as to what they would like to see on the new site.

The 2010 Design-Build conference will take place at the Intercontinental Hotel in Old Montreal. This year's program will feature informative topics on acquiring business, working with Trade Contractors, using BIM to grow your successes while discussing such age old issues as bonding and contract law. Come network with your fellow practitioners and share your Design-Build experiences.

To view the conference program or to register on-line please visit www.cdbi.org/events

There will also be a Fundamentals of Design-Build Tutorial on September 29. If you have not already attended one of CDBI tutorials we highly recommend you start off the conference with this jammed packed day of information. These tutorials are only given a few times a year and are in high demand all over the country so please take advantage of this opportunity.

Conference sponsorship opportunities are still available please contact the CDBI office.

Richardson College Benefits from Integrated Project Delivery Process

When high expectations for its new environmental facility hit up against the familiar obstacle of budget constraints, the University of Winnipeg found an unorthodox solution. Using a process called Integrated Project Delivery (IPD) it formed a partnership that integrated project participants in a cooperative team focused on a common goal: the most cost-effective way to deliver the best quality facility.

The $58 million building designed to house the Richardson College for the Environment (RCFE), currently under construction in Winnipeg's downtown, was envisioned as a signature sustainable development for the University.

RCFE aimed to set a new standard for sustainable laboratory design, green lab practice, operational performance and sustainable education. The college faculty also had a substantial list of program requirements...(To view the rest of this article please visit the CDBI web site Featured Projects section).

CDBI College of Fellows

In 2008 CDBI on its 10th year anniversary, made its first inaugurations to a College of Fellows to recognize individuals who made an outstanding contribution to the enhancement of the design-build industry.

Mr. Paul Douglas President & CEO of PCL Constructors Inc. received his membership certificate to the CDBI College of Fellows. The certificate was presented to Mr. Douglas during the Canadian Construction Association's (CCA) annual conference by the CCA Past Chair Brad Greene and CDBI Chair John Neilson.
